

SPADE WORK THAT GETS THE TRADE

To get steady sales in satisfactory volume, you must build up confidence in your store and its service.

Advertising in The Chauvin Chronicle will lay the foundation of such confidence. Advertising does the spade work that leads to bigger sales. It will tell folks about your store, its service. It will tell them about the goods you have to offer.

Let your advertising in The Chauvin Chronicle be a standing invitation to the folks around here. As a rule, tryman put it, in "King Henry VI"—

"My crown is in my heart, not on my head,
Not decked with diamonds, and Indian stones,
Nor to be seen,—my crown's called content."

A crown it is that seldom kings enjoy."

By death local organizations have lost a valuable prop.

The agricultural society whose cause he preached so generously well,

the U.F. locals and their various enterprises found his columns unfailingly open to help.

It was only lately that the chief organizer for the various new pools said to the writer, that of all the rural weeklies in the province the Chauvin Chronicle had done most

for the pools in the matter of free space, I think we feel he was right, due in great measure to the farmers' cause being the editor's chief concern, and those who appreciated him most were those who knew him best. Not by measure of years do we measure the worth of the citizen, but by the service

he renders, and though the tired

hands are at rest, and the pen laid down for the last time, and mortal

has put on immortality, the measure of his service will but strengthen with the years, and in our remembrances for it forms part of our life and work.

"We live in deeds, not years."

In heart throbs, not in figures

on a dial."

And in this knowledge may the sorrowing hearts left behind

work in which they have already borne an honorable share, while they are at rest.

CANADA NEXT
WORLD OIL RESERVOIR

With wells drilling all the way from the American boundary line to the Arctic circle, and a number already producing oil, signs point to the development in the near future of oil-fields in Canada which will rank with the greatest American fields. At a world oil reservoir, the United States is at its peak if, indeed, the peak has not already been passed and the attention of the great companies is focused on the areas north of the 49th parallel, says the Calgary Herald.

Seritium, the Western Canada fields which offer the brightest prospects are:

The dome structures 25 to 30 miles east of Coutts, on which the great Rogers-Imperial gas well is located; and where the Imperial Oil Limited is hoping to "bring in" another oil well shortly besides arranging to drill a third.

The Sweetgrass arch structure, on a continuation of which the Urban Oil Company is drilling and has a well down 1,800 feet near the town of Coutts.

The Rice Creek structure, a Rocky mountain foothill anticline west of the town of Nanton, where the Imperial Oil is drilling.

The dome structures of the great Alberta syncline at Foremost, where the Canadian Western Natural Gas Light, Heat and Power Company struck an oil sand in its No. 5 well and similar structures at Medicine Hat where several other companies are drilling, as in the vicinity of Medicine Hat and Many Island lake.

The famous Turner Valley, 45 miles southwest of Calgary, where the rich oil well in Canada, the Royalite No. 4 naptha gusher, is producing 500 barrels per day of 73 gravity oil and many other wells are racing down ward. This is also a Rocky mountain foothill anticline structure and others of this classification are the anticlines in the Bragg Creek area and the anticline at Jumping Pound, just west of Calgary, also the fields west of Olds.

The Viking field and the Wainwright and Fabyan structures, subsidiaries of the great Alberta syncline belonging in the classification of the foremost field and Medicine Hat structures. The British Petroleum 3B well is one of these at Wainwright.

The Coalspur anticline west of Edmonton where the Imperial Oil is drilling.

As a matter of fact similar structures parallel more or less to the

BETWEEN OURSELVES

The man who got to the top probably did not wait for the lift. He climbed the stairs. The man who got to the gate where the were out of bed.

There will always be plenty of room at the top. It's the bottom that's crowded. In the middle of the field, where the crack players are, there's room and to spare. It's the lookers on that are squeezed. That's why the grumbler is really grumbling against himself. While he is grumbling the other fellow is beating him.

Grousing never got anyone anywhere; never did anything—and never will. A merry heart and a willing hand—these are two excellent things to have. The big drum can drown the band; but it is the man who can play all the instruments who leads it. He doesn't say much, but everybody knows he's there. He makes himself felt—because he has the knowledge.

It is one of the beautiful compensations of life that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself.

Flowers bloom whether anyone looks at them or not. Have you less sense than a flower?

TO
LEONARD D'ALBERTANSON

The last few hours of pain and toll are spent;

The last sad moments gone;

And with a smile of peace and sweet content—

He has passed on.

Racked tho' his body was with angry pain—

Yet still the while

He suffered silently—and when his time came;

He met death with a smile.

To live his life in Christian steadfastness—

That was his pride.

Only his loved ones saw the smile of happiness

With which he died.

Has passed on—but still his spirit lives;

Ah! pause awhile—

And learn the lesson that his spirit gives—

The value of a smile.

To know his days were spent—that human skill

Could not avail.

Yet he could smile at death—and by his will

Conquer his body frail.

And Gran—dear Gran—when your tired feet have trod

This earth a little while;

Then—clasped into the arms of your dear God;

You'll see his smile.

THE ROYAL BANK IS NOW OPERATING 800 CANADIAN BRANCHES

To the mind of the average person the name, The Royal Bank of Canada does not adequately convey the manifold activities of this Canadian institution with over 800 branches in Canada and with over 100 branches established in other countries, as well as in London, New York and Paris, nor does the average business man realize the wide and varied service this Bank is able to render without going outside its own organization.

The Royal Bank of Canada has done much to foster Canadian trade abroad and the value of its services to exporters and importers lies not in its regular banking business alone, but also in its willingness at all times to supply information regarding markets and confidential credit reports, etc. The value of this type of service is to be found in the fact that information is gathered direct by Managers who are not only on the spot, but know intimately local conditions.

In a little over fifty years the bank has grown from a purely local bank to an institution of international importance and to-day holds a foremost position amongst the great banks of the world.

The Royal Bank of Canada was incorporated in 1869 as "The Merchants Bank of Halifax." Its name was changed to the present title on January 1, 1901. The Head Office was transferred from Halifax to Montreal on March 2, 1907.

During the last two decades, a vigorous policy of expansion has been followed. The assets of The Union Bank of Halifax were purchased by The Royal Bank of Canada on November 1, 1910; of The Traders Bank of Canada on September 1, 1912; of The Quebec Bank on January 2, 1917, and of The Northern Crown Bank on July 2, 1918.

The purchase of The Union Bank of Canada has added another 270 offices to The Royal Bank's original chain of branches in Canada, thus giving the Bank a total of over 800 branches in the Dominion and more than 100 abroad. The merger will bring the total assets of The Royal Bank of Canada well over $600,000,000.

The absorption of the Branches of The Union Bank of Canada by The Royal Bank of Canada was effected on September 1, 1925.

For the past nine years we have led all other towns of our district in school supplies at low prices. We have been selling the same scribblers and exercise books at 8 for 25¢, that other towns have been costing the children 5¢ straight—being standard size $5\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$ 60 pages. It is only by buying these in vast quantities we are able to do it. We have the assurance that our efforts are being appreciated by the quantity we are selling and we intend to continue giving you the same low price and ever lower when paper prices get easier.

Up to the present however, the best price we were ever able to give you on good regular 5¢ pencils was 6 for 25¢. Now we are going to do better. We have bought enough pencils, computed at the rate at which H.B. lead wears smooth paper and the number of school hours per year, to last one pupil two hundred and thirty three years of school life. We of course got a good buy and are going to pass it on to you at 3 for 25¢ or 3 dozen for $1.00.

PEKING PILLS

What is probably the oldest and certainly the most famous drug store in China is the Tung Jen Tang, which dates from A.D. 1500. It is situated outside the Tartar wall that separates the north from the south section of the city of Peking, and is still a flourishing business. The proprietor to-day is a direct descendant of the man who established the business.

Most Chinese drug stores become famous on account of some special preparation or compound that can be had only from them, and the Tung Jen Tang is no exception (says a writer in the Pharmaceutical Journal). The proprietor prepares special pills. They are about the size of a walnut, and some are coated with white wax. One large pill is usually divided by the patient into fifty or one hundred small pills and taken as directed.

AN EXTENSION LIBRARY AT THE OLDS SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

A healthy sign of the increased interest in things both scientific and cultural is manifested in the marshalled vigor shown by the students and ex-students in organizing and supporting the new Students' Library at the Olds School of Agriculture.

This library is auxiliary to and separate from the existing scientific and reference library at the school. It contains at present some 400 volumes comprised of the best in fiction, history, science, athletics, economics, philosophy and humor.

The library was founded and organized by the students of 1924 and 1925 under the direction of Mr. Churchill, Instructor of mathematics at the school. It has been supported almost entirely by donations from the students and Alumni. The library is rapidly increasing in size and scope and by November it is expected to have well over 1000 volumes for circulation. This however is regarded as the beginning only of a library and extension service that will fill a long felt need in rural Alberta. It is hoped that the government may see its way to assist in the expansion of the library and that in a very short time it may be made open to the public generally to whom it should prove a valuable adjunct to the existing sources of information and education.

All students and ex-students are entitled to use the library. In addition, outsiders who wish to avail themselves of the privileges of the library may do so upon the payment of a membership fee of One Dollar.

Books will be mailed post-paid to those wishing them and they may be kept one month when they are to be returned at the borrower's expense.

Lists of the books now in the library may be obtained upon request from the O.S.A.

In addition to the regular loan service of books, the library will have a magazine reference department in which valuable articles from the best journals will be filed, and these will be available to those desiring information for debates, speeches and articles, and for research and purely informative purposes, on all topics of general and scientific interest.

It is the aim of those in charge of the library to give a service somewhat similar to that of the university Extension library, but which will be more readily available through the ex-students to the rural population. It is realized that the people of rural Alberta are demanding a higher standard in literature and more exact scientific knowledge and with this in view the books have been selected with more than ordinary care.

Foreign Supplies Cheaper Than Imperial Beef

There is a consensus of opinion that the question of importing beef from the dominions is largely a matter of price, and that while Argentina and other foreign countries supply cheaper meat than the dominions can, no attempt to stimulate the demand for empire meat will be of much avail.

Argentine Beef Is Cheapest

Henry Adam, treasurer of the National Federation of Meat Traders, contended that of all the imported meats, the Argentine product is the best and cheapest, and he believed that while this continued to be the case, attempts to boost the imperial article could have little result.
